CHAPTER III

LEGISLATIVE POWERS WITHIN THE FEDERATION

Powers of Legislatures of the Federation and the Territories

43. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Constitution, the Federal Legislature shall have power to make laws for the peace, order and good government of the Federation with respect to any matter that is included in the Exclusive Legislative List or the Concurrent Legislative List and with respect to any matter incidental to any matter so included or incidental to any power conferred by or under this Constitution on the Governor-General, the Federal Judicature or any department, officer or other authority of the Federal Government.

(2) Subject to the provisions of this Constitution, the Legislature of a Territory shall not have power to make laws with respect to any matter that is included in the Exclusive Legislative List:

Provided that, where immediately before the coming into force of this article the Legislature of any Territory had power to make laws with respect to any matter included in the Exclusive Legislative List, that power shall not cease with respect to that matter until such date as the Governor-General may, by proclamation published in the Gazette, appoint, and until that date that matter shall in relation to that Territory be deemed to be included in the Concurrent Legislative List.

(3) Subject to the provisions of this Constitution and of the constitution of the Territory, the Legislature of any Territory (as well as the Federal Legislature) shall have power to make laws for that Territory with respect to any matter included in the Concurrent Legislative List.
(4) Save as otherwise provided by or under this Constitution the legislative powers of the Legislature of each Territory shall continue in accordance with the constitution of that Territory.

(5) No law of the Federal Legislature shall apply to the Turks and Caicos Islands or the Cayman Islands unless it is in express terms made applicable thereto.

44. (1) The Federal Legislature may by law confer on the Legislature of a Territory authority to make laws for that Territory with respect to any matter included in the Exclusive Legislative List.

(2) The Legislature of a Territory may by law confer upon the Federal Legislature authority to make laws for that Territory with respect to any matter that is not included in the Exclusive Legislative List or the Concurrent Legislative List and is within the legislative competence of the Legislature of that Territory.

(3) Any authority conferred upon the Federal Legislature or the Legislature of a Territory under this article may be general or may be granted for such period or subject to such conditions or restrictions as may be specified in the law by which it is conferred, and while such authority remains in force the matter to which it extends shall, in relation to the Territory concerned and to the extent of the authority conferred, be deemed to be included in the Concurrent Legislative List.

(4) Any such authority, whether granted generally or for a specified period, may be revoked at any time by a subsequent law of the Legislature by which it was conferred:

Provided that no such law shall come into force earlier than the expiration of six months from the date of the making thereof.

45. (1) If any law of the Legislature of a Territory is inconsistent with any law of the Federal Legislature which the Federal Legislature was competent to enact, whether the Federal law was made before or after the Territorial law, then the Federal law shall, to the extent of the inconsistency, prevail over the Territorial law; and a law of the Federal Legislature with respect to any matter for the time being within the legislative competence of that Legislature may amend or repeal, or provide for the amendment or repeal of, any law of the Legislature of a Territory with respect to that matter.

(2) Where the Legislature of a Territory has under the last foregoing article conferred on the Federal Legislature authority to make laws with respect to any matter and that authority is subsequently revoked, the law by which the authority is revoked, or any subsequent law of the Legislature of that Territory coming into force after the revocation becomes effective, may amend or repeal, or provide for the amendment or repeal of, any law of the Federal Legislature made in pursuance of that authority; but save as aforesaid, and except as may be further expressly provided by any law of the Federal Legislature, the Legislature of a Territory shall not have power to amend or repeal any law of the Federal Legislature.

(3) Where authority to make laws with respect to any matter has been conferred under the last foregoing article and has subsequently been revoked, any law made in pursuance of that authority shall, subject to paragraph (1) of this article, continue to have effect after the revocation has become effective except in so far as it is amended or repealed by a law of the Legislature by which the authority was conferred and revoked.

(4) Where the power of the Legislature of a Territory to make laws with respect to a matter included in the Exclusive Legislative List has ceased under paragraph (2) of article 43 of this Constitution, any law of that Legislature with respect to that matter in force immediately before the date when that power ceased shall, subject to paragraph (1) of this article, continue to have effect except in so far as it is amended or repealed by a subsequent law of the Federal Legislature.

46. Nothing in this Constitution shall be construed as precluding the Federal Legislature or the Legislature of a Territory from making provision by law for the appropriation of the public funds of the Federation or of that Territory, as the case may be, for a purpose for which that Legislature has no other power to make laws.

47. (1) A law of the Federal Legislature may make provision for the implementation in relation to the Federation or any one or more of the Territories of agreements with and other obligations towards or arrangements relating to countries outside the Federation or international organisations with respect to any matter, whether or not that matter is included in the Exclusive Legislative List or the Concurrent Legislative List.

(2) A law of the Legislature of a Territory may make provision for the implementation in relation to that Territory of agreements with and other obligations towards or arrangements relating to countries outside the Federation or international organisations with respect to any matter that is not included in the Exclusive Legislative List.

48. (1) A federal emergency law may make provision with respect to matters not included in the Exclusive Legislative List or the Concurrent Legislative List and a territorial emergency law may make provision with respect to matters included in the Exclusive Legislative List.

(2) A federal emergency law to the extent that it makes provision for any matter not included in the Exclusive Legislative List or the Concurrent Legislative List, and a territorial emergency law to the extent that it makes provision for any matter included in the Exclusive Legislative List, shall have effect only during a period of emergency.

Provided that the termination of a period of emergency shall not affect the operation of such a law during that emergency, or the validity of any action taken thereunder during that emergency, or any penalty or punishment incurred in respect of any contravention thereof or any failure to comply therewith during that emergency, or any proceeding or remedy in respect of any such punishment or penalty.
(3) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (1) of article 45 of this Constitution, if a territorial emergency law is inconsistent with any law of the Federal Legislature other than a federal emergency law then, save as the Governor-General by proclamation otherwise directs, the territorial emergency law shall, to the extent of the inconsistency, prevail over the federal law.

(4) In this article—

"federal emergency law" and "territorial emergency law" mean respectively a law of the Federal Legislature or a law of the Legislature of a Territory that makes special provision in relation to periods of emergency; and "period of emergency" means, in relation to a federal emergency law or a territorial emergency law, a period during which a state of emergency exists for the purposes of that law having been declared to exist by any authority empowered to make such a declaration.

Special provisions regarding Territorial laws that provide for controlling the movement of persons

49. (1) Articles 50 and 51 of this Constitution apply to any law of the Legislature of a Territory that makes provision for controlling the movement of persons between that Territory and any other Territory:

Provided that those articles shall not apply to a law that makes provision for controlling the movement of persons between one Territory and another only for a reason that is specified in the law, or in some other law amended by the law, and is connected with the maintenance of public health or the maintenance of public security.

(2) In reckoning any such period of ninety days as is referred to in article 50 of this Constitution no account shall be taken of any time during which the Federal Legislature is dissolved; and in reckoning any such period of sixty days as is referred to in article 51 of this Constitution no account shall be taken of any time during which that Legislature is dissolved or prorogued.

50. (1) As soon as is practicable after the end of a period of five years beginning with the date when this Constitution comes into force the Governor of each Territory shall cause to be laid before each chamber of the Federal Legislature a copy of every law enacted by the Legislature of that Territory (whether before or after the date aforesaid) which is in force at the end of the aforesaid period of five years and is a law to which this article applies; and it shall be the duty of each of those chambers to review any law of which a copy is so laid before it.

(2) If each chamber of the Federal Legislature has not within ninety days after the end of the aforesaid period of five years resolved that it does not object to a law of the Legislature of a Territory of which a copy is required to be laid before it under paragraph (1) of this article, then (unless the law sooner expires or is repealed and whether or not copies thereof have been laid as aforesaid) the law shall be deemed to be repealed at the end of the said ninety days to the extent that it makes provision for controlling the movement of persons between that Territory and any other Territory for any reason other than a reason that is specified in the law, or in some other law amended by the law, and is connected with the maintenance of public health or the maintenance of public security.

51. (1) If at any time after the end of a period of five years beginning with the date when this Constitution comes into force the Legislature of a Territory enacts any law to which this article applies, the Governor of that Territory shall, as soon as is practicable after the enactment of such law, cause a copy thereof to be laid before each chamber of the Federal Legislature; and it shall be the duty of each of those chambers to review any law of which a copy is so laid before it.

(2) A law of the Legislature of a Territory of which a copy is required to be laid before each chamber of the Federal Legislature under paragraph (1) of this article shall not come into operation before the end of a period of sixty days after the date of its enactment; and if each of those chambers has not within that period resolved that it does not object to the law, then (whether or not copies of the law have been laid as aforesaid) the law shall be deemed to be repealed at the end of the said sixty days to the extent that it makes provision for controlling the movement of persons between that Territory and any other Territory for any reason other than a reason that is specified in the law, or in some other law amended by the law, and is connected with the maintenance of public health or the maintenance of public security.

Powers of Her Majesty

52. (1) Any law of the Federal Legislature which has been assented to by the Governor-General and which appears to Her Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom—

(a) to alter, to the injury of the stockholders, provisions relating to any Federal stock, being securities in which a trustee may invest by virtue of section 2 of the Colonial Stock Act, 1900(h), or

(b) to involve a departure from the original contract in respect of any such stock, may be disallowed by Her Majesty through a Secretary of State.

(2) Whenever such a law has been disallowed by Her Majesty the Governor-General shall cause notice of such disallowance to be published in the Gazette and the law shall be annulled with effect from the date of the publication of that notice.
(3) On the annulment of any law under this article any enactment repealed or amended by or in pursuance of that law shall have effect as from the date of the annulment as if that law had not been made; but save as provided in the foregoing provisions of this paragraph the provisions of subsection (2) of section 38 of the Interpretation Act, 1889(i), shall apply to that annulment as they apply to the repeal of an Act of Parliament.

(4) In this article "Federal stock" means stock which forms the whole or part of the public debt of the Federation and shall be deemed to include stock which forms the whole or part of the public debt of a Territory and with respect to which the Federal Legislature has enacted such a law as aforesaid by virtue of authority conferred under paragraph (2) of article 44 of this Constitution.

Power of Her Majesty in Council to make laws.

53. (1) Her Majesty in Council may by Order make for the Federation such laws as appear to Her to be necessary for any of the following purposes—

(a) the defence of the Federation or any other part of Her Majesty’s dominions;

(b) the regulation of relations between the Federation and any country outside the Federation or any international organisation, including the discharge of the obligations of the Federation under any agreement with such a country or organisation;

(c) securing or maintaining the financial stability of the Federation in order to avoid the need for the provision of financial assistance to the Federation by Her Majesty’s Government in the United Kingdom or in order to prevent the credit of the Federation from being adversely affected.

(2) Except for the purpose of giving effect to any agreement to which the Federal Government is a party—

(a) no law made in pursuance of paragraph (1) of this article shall make provision for regulating the import of goods into or the export of goods from the Federation; and

(b) no such law, other than a law made for a purpose referred to in sub-paragraph (c) of the said paragraph (1), shall impose any charge on the revenues or assets of the Federation.

(3) If any law of the Federal Legislature or of the Legislature of any Territory is inconsistent with any Order in Council made in pursuance of this article, whether that law was made before or after the Order in Council, then the Order in Council shall, to the extent of the inconsistency, prevail over the law of the Federal Legislature or of the Legislature of the Territory, as the case may be.

(i) 52 & 53 Vict. c 63.
(4) Her Majesty in Council may by Order amend or revoke any law made in pursuance of this article.

(5) Upon the revocation or expiry of a law made in pursuance of this article subsection (2) of section 38 of the Interpretation Act, 1889, shall apply as if that law were an Act of Parliament which had then been repealed by another such Act.

Extra-Territorial Legislation

54. (1) Without prejudice to any other power vested in Her Majesty in Council or any legislature to make for the Federation or any Territory laws having extra-territorial operation, a law made by Her Majesty in Council under article 53 of this Constitution, a law of the Federal Legislature or a law of the Legislature of any Territory may—

(a) authorise the custody on any ship or aircraft to which this sub-paragraph applies, while such ship or aircraft is outside the Federation of any person who is being moved from any place in the Federation to another place therein in pursuance of that law or any other law;

(b) regulate fishing outside the territorial waters of the Federation by vessels registered or licensed in the Federation; or

(c) regulate navigation and provide for the safety of shipping in such areas as may be specified in any such law, being areas surrounding installations erected on or attached to the continental shelf of any Territory in connection with the exploration or exploitation of the natural resources of that shelf.

(2) The ships and aircraft to which sub-paragraph (a) of paragraph (1) of this article applies are ships and aircraft registered in the Federation and Her Majesty’s ships and aircraft belonging to the naval or air forces of the United Kingdom or the Federation.

CHAPTER IV

The Federal Executive

Executive authority within the Federation

55. (1) The executive authority of the Federation shall be vested in Her Majesty.

(2) Subject to the provisions of this Constitution, the executive authority of the Federation may be exercised on behalf of Her Majesty by the Governor-General, either directly or through officers subordinate to him, but nothing in this paragraph shall prevent the Federal Legislature from conferring functions on persons or authorities other than the Governor-General.

[The inclusion of this page is authorised by S.I. 14/1959.] Printed by Yuille’s Printerie Limited, Trinidad, by authority of the Government of The West Indies.
(3) In this Constitution, unless it is otherwise provided or required by the context, references to the functions of the Governor-General shall be construed as references to his powers and duties in the exercise of the executive authority of the Federation and to any other powers or duties conferred or imposed on him as Governor-General by or under this Constitution or any other law.

56. (1) The executive authority of the Federation shall extend to the execution and maintenance of this Constitution, to all matters with respect to which the Federal Legislature has for the time being power to make laws, and to such external relations as may from time to time be entrusted to the Federation by Her Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom.

(2) Subject to the provisions of this Constitution, the executive authority of each of the Territories shall continue in accordance with the constitution of that Territory.

57. (1) The Governor-General may, with the consent of the Governor of a Territory, entrust either conditionally or unconditionally to that Governor or to any officer or authority of that Territory functions in relation to any matter to which the executive authority of the Federation extends falling to be performed within that Territory.

(2) A law of the Federal Legislature may, notwithstanding that it relates to a matter with respect to which the Legislature of a Territory has not power to make laws, include provision conferring powers or imposing duties, or authorising the conferring of powers or imposition of duties, upon the Governor of a Territory or any officer or authority of a Territory:

Provided that no such provision shall have effect in relation to any Territory unless the Governor of that Territory has declared by notice in the official Gazette of that Territory that he consents to its having effect.

58. (1) The Governor of a Territory may, with the consent of the Governor-General, entrust either conditionally or unconditionally to the Governor-General or to any officer or authority of the Federation functions in relation to any matter to which the executive authority of that Territory extends.

(2) A law of the Legislature of a Territory may, notwithstanding that it relates to a matter with respect to which the Federal Legislature has not power to make laws, include provision conferring powers or imposing duties, or authorising the conferring of powers or imposition of duties, upon the Governor-General or any officer or authority of the Federation:

Provided that no such provision shall have effect unless the Governor-General has declared by notice in the Gazette that he consents to its having effect.
The Council of State

59. (1) There shall be a Council of State which shall be the principal establishment of policy for the Federation and, subject to the provisions of this Constitution, shall advise the Governor-General in the exercise of his functions.

(2) Subject to article 66 of this Constitution, the Council of State shall consist of a Prime Minister appointed in accordance with article 62, and ten other Ministers appointed in accordance with article 63, of this Constitution.

60. (1) In the exercise of his functions the Governor-General shall, subject to the following paragraphs of this article, act in accordance with the advice of the Council of State.

(2) The Governor-General shall not be required to obtain the advice of the Council of State in any case in which, in his individual judgment, the public interest requires that he should consult the Prime Minister instead of the Council; but in any such case he shall, subject to paragraph (4) of this article, act in accordance with the advice of the Prime Minister.

(3) The Governor-General shall not be required to obtain the advice of the Council of State in any case in which, in his individual judgment, the urgency of the matter requires him to act before the Council can be consulted or the question for decision is too unimportant to require their advice; but in any such case of urgency he shall, as soon as practicable, communicate to the Council the measures that he has adopted and the reasons therefor.

(4) When the Governor-General has, in pursuance of this article, obtained the advice of the Council of State or of the Prime Minister in relation to any matter referred to in sub-paragraph (a), (b) or (c) of paragraph (1) of article 53 of this Constitution, he may act otherwise than in accordance with that advice if, in his individual judgment, he considers it necessary or expedient so to do:

Provided that he shall not so act without first obtaining the approval of a Secretary of State unless, in his individual judgment, the urgency of the matter requires him to act before such approval could be obtained.

(5) This article shall not apply to the exercise by the Governor-General of—

(a) any function conferred on him by any law other than this Constitution in terms which authorise him to exercise that function otherwise than in accordance with the advice of the Council of State;

Allocation of portfolios.

61. (1) The Governor-General may assign to any Minister responsibility for dealing with any business on behalf of the Federal Government—

Provided that—

(a) nothing in this article shall empower the Governor-General to confer on any Minister authority to exercise any power or to discharge any duty that is conferred or imposed by this Constitution or by any other law on the Governor-General or on any person or authority other than that Minister; and

(b) responsibility for the initiation, conduct and discontinuance of criminal proceedings shall not be assigned to a Minister but shall vest in the Attorney-General of the Federation.

(2) The power conferred upon the Governor-General by this article shall be exercised in accordance with the advice of the Prime Minister:

Provided that the Governor-General shall not be obliged to assign to any Minister responsibility for any business relating to—

Provided that a person who is a member of the Executive Council or of the Legislature of any Territory shall not be qualified for election under this paragraph.

(2) The Governor-General shall, by instrument under the public seal, appoint as Prime Minister of the Federation any person whom the House of Representatives elects for appointment under this article.

63. The Ministers other than the Prime Minister shall be such persons as the Governor-General may, in accordance with the advice of the Prime Minister, appoint by instrument under the public seal:

Provided that—

(a) not less than three of the Ministers shall be persons who are members of the Senate and the remainder shall be persons who are members of the House of Representatives; and

(b) a person who is a member of the Executive Council or of the Legislature of any Territory shall not be qualified for appointment as a Minister.

64. (1) Subject to the following paragraphs of this article, every Tenure of office of Minister shall hold office during the pleasure of the Governor-General.

(2) When, under article 62 of this Constitution, the House of Representatives elects any person for appointment as Prime Minister, every office of Minister (including the office of Prime Minister) which is not then vacant shall thereupon become vacant.

(3) A Minister shall vacate his office—

(a) if he resigns his office by writing under his hand addressed to the Governor-General;

(b) in the case of a Minister who is a member of the Senate at the date of his appointment as a Minister, if he ceases to be a member of the Senate; or

(c) in the case of a Minister who is a member of the House of Representatives at the date of his appointment as a Minister, if he ceases to be a member of the House for any reason other than a dissolution of the Federal Legislature.

65. (1) Whenever the office of Prime Minister is vacant or the Prime Minister is ill or is absent from the Federation, the Governor-General may, by instrument under the public seal, appoint one of the other Ministers (not being a member of the Senate) to perform the functions of Prime Minister in certain functions conferred on the Prime Minister by this Constitution (other than the function conferred by paragraph (3) of this article); and any Minister so appointed may, during the subsistence of his appointment, perform those functions.
(2) The Governor-General may, by instrument under the public seal, revoke any appointment made under this article.

(3) The powers conferred upon the Governor-General by this article shall be exercised by the Governor-General acting in his discretion—

(a) if the office of Prime Minister is vacant; or

(b) if, in the Governor-General's individual judgment, it is impracticable to obtain the advice of the Prime Minister owing to his illness or absence, and in any other case shall be exercised by the Governor-General in accordance with the advice of the Prime Minister.

66. (1) Whenever a Minister is, by reason of his illness or his absence from the Federation, unable to perform the functions of his office, the Governor-General may, by instrument under the public seal, appoint a person to be temporarily a member of the Council of State:

Provided that the person so appointed shall be a member of the same chamber of the Federal Legislature as the Minister on account of whose inability to perform his functions he is appointed.

(2) Articles 61 and 64 of this Constitution shall apply in relation to a person appointed under this article to be temporarily a member of the Council of State as they apply in relation to a Minister.

(3) Subject to paragraph (2) of this article, a person appointed under this article to be temporarily a member of the Council of State shall hold office until he is notified by the Governor-General that the Minister on account of whose inability to perform his functions he was appointed is again able to perform his functions or the office of that Minister becomes vacant.

(4) The powers conferred on the Governor-General by this article shall be exercised by him in accordance with the advice of the Prime Minister.

67. Before entering upon the functions of his office, every member of the Council of State shall make and subscribe before the Governor-General, or some other person authorised in that behalf by the Governor-General, an oath or affirmation for the due execution of that office in the form set out in the First Schedule to this Constitution.

68. The Council of State shall not be summoned except by the authority of the Governor-General, acting in his discretion:

Provided that the Governor-General shall summon the Council if the Prime Minister so recommends.

69. (1) The Governor-General shall, by writing under his hand, nominate for the purposes of this article three persons who hold office in the public service of the Federation, and the persons so nominated [The inclusion of this page is authorised by S.I. 14/1959.] Printed by Yuille's Printerie Limited, Trinidad, by authority of the Government of The West Indies.
shall have the right to attend any meeting of the Council of State and to take part in the discussions at that meeting.

(2) Any of the said persons may be nominated either by name or by reference to the Office in the public service held by him; and the Governor-General may, by writing under his hand, from time to time revoke the nomination of any person under this article and nominate another person in his place.

(3) The powers conferred upon the Governor-General by this article shall be exercised by him in his discretion.

70. (1) The Governor-General shall, so far as is practicable, attend and preside at meetings of the Council of State.

(2) In the absence of the Governor-General there shall preside at any meeting of the Council of State either the Prime Minister or, in the absence of the Prime Minister, such Minister as the Governor-General, in accordance with the advice of the Prime Minister, may appoint.

(3) No business shall be transacted at any meeting of the Council of State if there are less than four members of the Council present at the meeting and the Governor-General or any member of the Council present at the meeting has objected to the transaction of business on that account.

(4) Subject to paragraph (3) of this article, the Council of State shall not be disqualified for the transaction of business by reason of any vacancy in the membership of the Council (including any vacancy not filled when the Council is first constituted or is reconstituted at any time) and the validity of the transaction of business in the Council shall not be affected by reason only of the fact that some person who was not entitled so to do took part in those proceedings.

71. Where the Governor-General is required to exercise any function in accordance with the advice of the Council of State or of the Prime Minister, the question whether any, and if so what, advice has been tendered to the Governor-General by the Council of State or the Prime Minister, as the case may be, shall not be enquired into by courts.

74. (1) The Chief Justice of the Federation and the Federal Justices shall be appointed by the Governor-General, acting in his discretion after consultation with the Prime Minister, by instrument under the public seal:

Provided that the first Chief Justice of the Federation shall be appointed by the Governor-General in accordance with such instructions as may be given to him by Her Majesty through a Secretary of State.

(2) The Chief Justice of the Federation or a Federal Justice may at any time resign his office by writing under his hand addressed to the Governor-General.

(3) The Chief Justice of the Federation or a Federal Justice may be removed from office by the Governor-General by order under the public seal but shall not be so removed except for inability or misbehaviour and unless—

(a) the question of his removal from office has, at the request of the Governor-General, been referred by Her Majesty to the Judicial Committee of Her Majesty's Privy Council under section 4 of the Judicial Committee Act, 1833; and

(b) the Governor-General has been notified that the Judicial Committee has advised Her Majesty that he ought to be removed from office.

(4) If the Governor-General has requested that the question of removing any judge of the Federal Supreme Court from office be referred to the Judicial Committee, he may suspend that judge from performing the functions of his office.

(5) The Governor-General may at any time revoke the suspension of a judge of the Federal Supreme Court, and any such suspension shall in any case cease to have effect—

(a) if the Governor-General withdraws the request for reference to the Judicial Committee of the question of removing the judge from office; or

(b) if the Judicial Committee has advised Her Majesty that the judge ought not to be removed from office and the Governor-General has been notified accordingly.

(j) 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 41.
(6) The powers conferred upon the Governor-General by paragraphs (3), (4) and (5) of this article shall be exercised in his discretion after consultation with the Prime Minister.

76. If the office of Chief Justice of the Federation is vacant, or if the Chief Justice of the Federation is for any reason unable to perform the functions of his office, then, until some other person has been appointed to and has assumed the functions of that office or, as the case may be, until the Chief Justice has resumed those functions, those functions shall be performed by such one of the other judges of the Federal Supreme Court as the Governor-General, acting in his discretion after consultation with the Prime Minister, may appoint for that purpose.

77. (1) If the office of any Federal Justice is vacant or if any Federal Justice is for any reason unable to perform the functions of his office, the Governor-General, acting in his discretion after consultation with the Prime Minister, may appoint a person qualified for appointment as a Federal Justice to be temporarily a judge of the Federal Supreme Court:

Provided that a person may be so appointed notwithstanding that he has attained the age of sixty-five years.

(2) Any person appointed under this article to be temporarily a judge of the Federal Supreme Court shall hold office until his appointment is revoked by the Governor-General, acting in his discretion after consultation with the Chief Justice of the Federation:

Provided that he may at any time resign his office by writing under his hand addressed to the Governor-General.

78. Before entering upon the functions of his office, every judge of the Federal Supreme Court shall make and subscribe before the Governor-General, or some other person authorised by the Governor-General in that behalf, oaths or affirmations of allegiance and for the due execution of his office in the forms set out in the First Schedule to this Constitution.

79. There shall be charged on the revenues of the Federation and paid thereout to the Chief Justice of the Federation, to any Federal Justice and to any person appointed to be temporarily a judge of the Federal Supreme Court such salaries and allowances as may be respectively prescribed by any law of the Federal Legislature:

(b) in any proceedings in which a writ or order of mandamus or prohibition or an injunction is sought by the Federation against an officer or authority of a Territory or by a Territory against an officer or authority of the Federation; and

(e) in any suit for a penalty under article 113 of this Constitution.

(2) In this article references to the Federation or a Territory include references to a person suing or being sued on behalf of the Federation or a Territory, as the case may be.

81. (1) The Federal Supreme Court shall, to the exclusion of any other court, have original jurisdiction to determine any question as to jurisdiction and the interpretation of this Constitution which is referred to it under the following paragraphs of this article.

(2) If any question as to the interpretation of this Constitution arises in any proceedings in a superior court of a Territory, that court may, if it sees fit, refer that question to the Federal Supreme Court.

(3) If any question as to the interpretation of this Constitution arises in any proceedings in any other court of a Territory, the person presiding in that court may apply to a superior court of that Territory for an order of that court referring that question to the Federal Supreme Court, and the superior court may, as it sees fit, either make the order or refuse it.

(4) If any party to the proceedings referred to in paragraph (3) of this article requests that the person presiding in the court shall make such an application as is so referred to, then, unless in his opinion the request is frivolous or vexatious, that person shall do so.

82. Provision conferring upon the Federal Supreme Court power for jurisdiction other than appellate jurisdiction, in addition to that conferred Federation by articles 80 and 81 of this Constitution, may be made by a law of the Federal Legislature or of the Legislature of a Territory with respect to any matter within the legislative competence, whether exclusive or concurrent, of the Legislature by which the law is made:

Provided that the Federal Supreme Court shall not exercise any jurisdiction conferred upon it by a law of the Legislature of a Territory unless the Governor-General has, by Proclamation, given notice that both chambers of the Federal Legislature have, by resolution, approved the conferment of that jurisdiction.

83. (1) Subject to paragraph (2) of this article, the Federal Supreme Court shall have such jurisdiction to hear and determine appeals (including reserved questions of law and cases stated) from any superior court of a Territory, and, in connection with such appeals, such powers and authorities, as may be conferred upon it by any law of the Federal Legislature, and any such law may provide that any jurisdiction so conferred shall, to such extent as may be specified in the law, be to the exclusion of the jurisdiction of any other court in the Federation:

Printed by Yuille's Printerie Limited, Trinidad, by authority of the Government of The West Indies.
Provided that as respects any matter not included in the Exclusive Legislative List or the Concurrent Legislative List the Federal Supreme Court shall not have jurisdiction in any case in which it is provided by a law of the Legislature of a Territory that the decision of a superior court of that Territory is to be final.

(2) Where a superior court of a Territory has jurisdiction to hear and determine appeals in criminal matters from another superior court of that Territory, then any law of the Federal Legislature that confers on the Federal Supreme Court jurisdiction to hear and determine appeals in criminal matters from that other superior court shall, to the extent that it confers that jurisdiction, not have effect unless and until the Governor of that Territory has given notice that the legislative chamber of that Territory has, or in the case of a Territory having two legislative chambers, that both of those chambers have, by resolution, approved the conferment of that jurisdiction.

(3) The Federal Supreme Court shall have such jurisdiction to hear and determine appeals from a single judge of the Federal Supreme Court exercising the original jurisdiction of that Court and from any other Federal court, and, in connection with such appeals, such powers and authorities, as may be conferred upon it by any law of the Federal Legislature.

84. (1) All authorities throughout the Federation shall act in aid of the Federal Supreme Court, and any judgment, decree, order or sentence of the Federal Supreme Court given in exercise of jurisdiction conferred on it by or under this Constitution shall be enforced by all courts and authorities in any of the Territories as if it were a judgment, decree, order or sentence of a superior court of that Territory.

(2) Subject to any law of the Federal Legislature, the Federal Supreme Court shall, in connection with any jurisdiction conferred on it by or under this Constitution, have power to make any order for the purpose of securing the attendance of any person, the discovery or production of any document, or the investigation or punishment of any contempt of court that any superior court of a Territory has power to make as respects the area within its jurisdiction.

85. (1) (a) Subject to the provisions of this article, the Chief Justice of the Federation and any two other judges of the Federal Supreme Court selected by him may make rules of court for regulating the practice and procedure of the Federal Supreme Court in exercise of jurisdiction conferred upon it by or under this Constitution and, in relation to appeals brought or questions of law referred to the Federal Supreme Court by virtue of this Constitution, the practice and procedure of any court from which such appeals are brought, or by which such references are made.

(b) Without prejudice to the generality of sub-paragraph (a) of this paragraph rules of court may be made for the following purposes:—

(i) for regulating the sittings of the Federal Supreme Court and the selection of judges for any purpose;

(ii) for regulating the right of practising in the Federal Supreme Court and the representation of persons concerned in any proceedings in the Court;

(iii) for prescribing cases in which, and conditions upon which, an appellant in a criminal appeal to the Federal Supreme Court shall be entitled to be present at the hearing of the appeal;

(iv) for providing for the summary determination of any appeal which appears to the Federal Supreme Court to be frivolous or vexatious or to be brought for the purpose of delay;

(v) for prescribing forms and fees in respect of proceedings in the Federal Supreme Court and regulating the costs of and incidental to any such proceedings;

(vi) for prescribing and regulating the powers and duties of officers of the Federal Supreme Court;

(vii) for prescribing, in the case of any Territory where there is more than one superior court, the superior court to which any application under paragraph (3) of article 81 of this Constitution shall be made from any particular court; and

(viii) for prescribing the time within which any requirement of the rules is to be complied with.

(2) Rules of court made under this article may provide that such determinations of the Supreme Court of the Windward Islands and Leeward Islands as may be specified in the rules shall or shall not be deemed for the purposes of paragraph (2) of article 83 of this Constitution to have been made by that Court in exercise of its jurisdiction in any Territory within the Windward Islands or the Leeward Islands so specified.

(3) Rules of court made under this article may fix the number of judges of the Federal Supreme Court who are to sit for any purpose, so, however, that in exercise of the appellate jurisdiction of the Court or of the jurisdiction conferred on the Court by article 81 of this Constitution, no matter shall be finally determined by less than three judges.

(4) (a) The Federal Legislature may by law make provision for any matters in respect of which rules of court may be made under this article.

(b) If any rule of court made under this article is inconsistent with a law made under this paragraph, the law shall, to the extent of the inconsistency, prevail over the rule of court.
(5) Unless it is otherwise provided by any law of the Federal Legislature, any final determination of the Federal Supreme Court made in exercise of jurisdiction conferred on it by or under this Constitution shall be delivered in open court and, when more than one judge is sitting, shall require the concurrence of a majority of the judges present at the hearing of the matter.

86. The Federal Legislature may by law confer upon the Federal Supreme Court such additional or supplemental powers as may appear to that Legislature necessary or desirable and be consistent with this Constitution for enabling the Court more effectively to exercise any jurisdiction conferred upon it by this Constitution or by any other law.

Appeals to Her Majesty in Council from the Federal Supreme Court and superior courts of Territories

87. The Federal Legislature may by law confer a right of appeal to Her Majesty in Council from determinations of the Federal Supreme Court made in exercise of jurisdiction conferred on it by or under this Constitution in such cases and subject to such conditions as may be prescribed by or under any such law, but save as provided by any such law there shall be no right of appeal to Her Majesty in Council from any such determination of the Federal Supreme Court.

88. (1) There shall be no right of appeal direct to Her Majesty in Council from a determination of a superior court of a Territory except with the leave of the Federal Supreme Court, which shall be granted only in such circumstances as the Federal Legislature may by law prescribe.

(2) The provisions of this article shall not affect any appeal from a superior court of a Territory to Her Majesty in Council for which leave, either conditional or final, has been granted by that superior court before the date on which this article comes into force.

89. For the avoidance of doubt it is hereby declared that nothing in the two last foregoing articles shall be construed as purporting to impair any right which Her Majesty in Council may be pleased to exercise to grant special leave to appeal to Her Majesty in Council from the Federal Supreme Court or from a superior court of any Territory.

Federal Courts other than the Federal Supreme Court

90. Subject to the provisions of articles 80 and 81 of this Constitution with respect to the jurisdiction of the Federal Supreme Court, the Federal Legislature may by law establish courts other than the Federal Supreme Court and may provide for the constitution, jurisdiction and powers of any such courts:

Provided that any court so established shall not, as respects any Territory, exercise any jurisdiction conferred upon it with respect to any matter within the exclusive legislative competence of that Territory.

unless the Governor of that Territory has declared by notice in the official Gazette of the Territory that he consents to the exercise of that jurisdiction by that court.

CHAPTER VI
FINANCE

91. (1) In this Chapter —
Interpretation.
“the first five financial years” means the five consecutive periods of twelve months immediately following the thirty-first day of December, 1957;
“scheduled commodity” means a commodity specified in the first column of the Fourth Schedule to this Constitution; and “scheduled rate” means, in relation to a scheduled commodity, the rate specified in the second column of the Fourth Schedule to this Constitution opposite the name of that commodity.

(2) For the purposes of this Chapter the proceeds of a duty for any financial year shall be the amount remaining from the receipts from that duty that are collected in that year after the cost of collecting those receipts has been deducted and after any drawbacks, refunds or other repayments relating to those receipts have been made or allowed for.

92. (1) Save as expressly provided by this Constitution no moneys shall be withdrawn from the public funds of the Federation except under appropriation by a law of the Federal Legislature:

Provided that the Federal Legislature may by law make provision for making moneys available in advance of appropriation by that Legislature for the purpose of meeting unforeseen expenditure or to cover any period not exceeding four months between the end of a financial year and the coming into force of the law authorising the appropriation for the next following year.

(2) Unless a law of the Federal Legislature otherwise provides, the financial year of the Federation shall be a year beginning on the first day of January and ending on the thirty-first day of December.

93. (1) The Governments of the Territories shall, in respect of each of the first five financial years, together pay to the Federal Government for the purposes of that Government such sum or sums as the Governor-General may demand from the Territories in respect of that year:
Payments by Territories to the Federation during first five financial years.

Provided that—

(i) the total amount demanded from the Territories in respect of any year shall not exceed nine million one hundred and twenty thousand dollars; and

(ii) the Government of each Territory shall pay the proportion of that amount that is specified opposite the name of that Territory in the Fifth Schedule to this Constitution.

[The inclusion of this page is authorised by S.I. 14/1959.]

(2) Any sum that is required by virtue of this article to be paid by the Governments of the Territories to the Federal Government shall be paid on or before such date as the Governor-General may direct:

Provided that the Governments of the Territories shall not be required to make any such payment before the beginning of the year in respect of which the payment is made.

94. (1) If, in respect of any of the first five financial years, any revenues (in this article referred to as “customs and excise revenues”) accrue to the Federal Government from customs and excise duties levied under any law of the Federal Legislature on scheduled commodities and the amount of those customs and excise revenues, taken together with the amount (if any) paid to the Federal Government in respect of that year under the last foregoing article, exceeds the sum of nine million one hundred and twenty thousand dollars, then the Federal Government shall pay to the Governments of the Territories a sum equal to the amount of that excess so that the Government of each Territory shall receive a share of the said sum proportionate to the amount of those customs and excise revenues that was derived from that Territory.

(2) For the purposes of this article the revenues accruing to the Federal Government in respect of any year from customs and excise duties levied under any law of the Federal Legislature on scheduled commodities shall be the aggregate amount of the proceeds for that year of all such duties reduced by the amount of any sum or sums required to be paid by the Federal Government to the Governments of the Territories in respect of those proceeds under paragraph (1) of the next following article.

95. (1) If in any of the first five financial years any customs or excise duty is levied under any law of the Federal Legislature on any scheduled commodity at a rate higher than the scheduled rate, the Federal Government shall pay to the Governments of the Territories a sum equal to the amount of the proceeds of the duty for that year that is attributable to the fact that the duty was levied at a rate higher than the scheduled rate so that the Government of each Territory shall receive a share of the said sum proportionate to the amount of the proceeds of the duty for that year that was derived from that Territory.

(2) If in any financial year any customs or excise duty is levied under any law of the Federal Legislature on any commodity other than a scheduled commodity, the Federal Government shall pay to the Governments of the Territories a sum equal to the amount of the proceeds of the duty for that year so that the Government of each Territory shall receive a share of the said sum equal to the amount of the proceeds of the duty for that year that was derived from that Territory.
96. (1) If, under any law made in pursuance of paragraph (1) of Payments to Territories in certain financial years for a purpose referred to in sub-paragraph (c) of that paragraph and the amount of those special revenues, taken together, with the amount of the federal revenues for that year, exceeds the sum of nine million one hundred and twenty thousand dollars, then there shall be paid to the Governments of the Territories from the proceeds of those special revenues a sum equal to the amount of that excess so that the Government of each Territory shall receive a share of the said sum proportionate to the amount of those special revenues that was derived from that Territory.

(2) In this article the expression "federal revenues" means in relation to any year the aggregate of—

(a) the amount paid to the Federal Government in respect of that year under article 93 of this Constitution; and

(b) the proceeds for that year of any custom or excise duties levied under any law of the Federal Legislature reduced by the amount of any sums required to be paid by the Federal Government to the Government of the Territories in respect of that year under the last two foregoing articles.

97. If, by virtue of any law of the Federal Legislature, the Federal Postal Government becomes entitled for the first time to the revenues arising in any Territory from postal services then, during a period of five years beginning with the date when the Federal Government becomes entitled to those revenues, the Federal Government shall (so long as it continues to be so entitled) pay in each year to the Government of that Territory, if that Government so requires, a sum equal in amount to the average annual profits that accrued to that Government from postal services during the period of five years immediately preceding the date aforesaid.

98. (1) In respect of each financial year beginning after the thirty-first day of December, 1957—

(a) the Government of Jamaica shall pay to the Federal Government a sum equal to the sum (if any) that is transferred in that year to the general revenue of Jamaica from the Government Currency Note Income Account or the Note Security Fund under sub-paragraph (iii) of paragraph (4) of section 7 of the Currency Notes Law of Jamaica; and

(b) the Government of every other Territory shall pay to the Federal Government a sum equal to the sum (if any) that is paid in that year to that Government from the British Caribbean Territories (Eastern Group) (Currency Surplus) Account under paragraph (4) of article 5 of the Agreement contained in the First Schedule to the Currency Notes Law.
THE WEST INDIES (FEDERATION) ORDER IN COUNCIL, 1957

(b) to the Government of every other Territory, a sum equal to the sum (if any) that is paid in that year from the revenue of that Government to meet any deficiency in the Currency Fund Income Account or in the Currency Fund under paragraph (3) of article 4 or under article 6 of the Agreement contained in the First Schedule to the Currency Act or Ordinance of that Territory.

(3) Nothing in this article shall prejudice the power of the Federal Legislature or of the Legislature of any Territory to make laws with respect to currency:

Provided that no law of the Legislature of a Territory with respect to currency that is enacted after the date on which this Constitution comes into force shall have effect unless the Governor-General has declared by notice in the Gazette that he consents to its having effect.

(4) In this article “financial year” means, in relation to any payment that is to be made by or to the Government of a Territory, a financial year of that Territory.

Any payments that are required by virtue of this Chapter to be made by the Federal Government to the Government of a Territory or by the Government of a Territory to the Federal Government are hereby charged on the revenues of the Federation or of that Territory, as the case may be.

Any sum that is required by virtue of this Chapter to be paid by the Federal Government to the Government of a Territory, or that is required by virtue of paragraph (1) of article 98 of this Constitution to be paid by the Government of a Territory to the Federal Government, in respect of any year shall be paid before the end of the first quarter of the next succeeding year unless either—

(a) the Governor-General and the Governor of that Territory agree that the sum shall be paid on or before some later date, in which case it shall be paid on or before that date; or

(b) the amount of the sum is not ascertained in time to permit the payment thereof to be made before the end of that
