TYPES AND CLASSES OF INSURANCE BUSINESS

For the purposes of this Act, “insurance business” shall be categorised according to types of insurance business and each type of insurance business will be subdivided into classes as follows:

TYPE A—GENERAL INSURANCE BUSINESS

- (1) “Liability Insurance Business” means the business of effecting and carrying out contracts of insurance against risks of the persons insured incurring liabilities to third parties, not being risks arising out of, or in connection with the use of, motor vehicles or out of, or in connection with the use of, vessels or aircraft or risks incidental to the construction, repair or docking of vessels or aircraft, or policies insuring employers against liability to pay compensation or damages to workers in their employment.
- (2) “Marine, Aviation and Transport Business” means the business of effecting and carrying out contracts of insurance where the policyholder has a residential or business connection to Trinidad and Tobago—
 - (a) upon vessels or aircraft or upon the machinery, tackle, furniture or equipment of vessels or aircraft;
 - (b) upon goods, merchandise or property of any description whatever on board of vessels or aircraft;
 - (c) upon the freight of, or any other interest in, or relating to vessels or aircraft;
 - (d) against damage arising out of, or in connection with, the use of vessels, or aircraft, including third-party risks;
 - (e) against risks incidental to the construction, repair or docking of vessels including third-party risks;
 - (f) against transit risks (whether the transit is by sea, inland water, land or air, or partly one and partly another), including risks incidental to the transit insured from the commencement of the transit to the ultimate destination covered by the insurance; or
 - (g) against any other risks insurance against which is customarily undertaken in conjunction with, or as falls within the definition by virtue of any of the foregoing paragraphs.
- (3) “Motor Vehicle Insurance Business” means the business of effecting and carrying out contracts of insurance against loss of, or damage to, or loss or damage arising out of, or in connection with the use of, motor vehicles, inclusive of third-party risk but exclusive of transit risks.

- (4) “Pecuniary Loss Insurance Business” means the business of effecting and carrying out contracts of insurance against any of the following risks:
- (a) of loss to the persons insured arising from the insolvency of their debtors or from the failure (otherwise than through insolvency) of their debtors to pay their debts when due;
 - (b) of loss to the persons insured arising from their having to perform contracts of guarantee entered into by them;
 - (c) of loss to the persons insured attributable to their incurring unforeseen expenses; or
 - (d) neither falling within any of the foregoing paragraphs nor being a kind such that the carrying on of the business of effecting and carrying out contracts of insurance against them constitutes the carrying on of insurance business of some other class, and excludes risks of loss to the persons insured attributable to interruptions of the carrying on of business carried on by them or to reductions of the scope of business so carried on.

- (5) “Personal Accident Short-Term Insurance Business” means the business of effecting and carrying out contracts of insurance—
- (a) in the case of accident—
 - (i) insurance against loss resulting from bodily injury to, or the death of, a person caused by an accident; or
 - (ii) insurance whereby an insurer undertakes to pay a certain sum or sums of insurance monies in the event of bodily injury to, or the death of, a person caused by an accident; or
 - (b) in the case of sickness—
 - (i) insurance against loss resulting from the sickness or disability of a person other than loss resulting from an accident or death;
 - (ii) insurance whereby an insurer undertakes to pay a certain sum or sums of insurance monies in the event of the sickness or disability of a person other than as a result of an accident; or
 - (iii) insurance whereby an insurer undertakes to pay a certain sum or sums of insurance monies to reimburse expenses incurred for the health care, including the preventive care of a person other than as a result of an accident.

Contracts of insurance referred to in paragraph (5) under “Personal Accident Short-Term Insurance Business” are required to be—

- (a) attached as riders or additional benefits to other General Insurance contracts and meet all of the following criteria:
 - (i) have a policy period no longer than one year;
 - (ii) have a period for which benefits may be payable following a sickness or accident of no longer than five years;
 - (iii) have no provision for guaranteed renewability or guaranteed extension of cover;
 - (iv) provide indemnity only if an event indemnified by the General Insurance contract to which it is attached occurs prior to, or simultaneous with accident or sickness; and
 - (v) have a premium no more than twenty-five per cent of the premium of the General Insurance contract to which they are attached; or
 - (b) standalone contracts of insurance and meet all of the following criteria:
 - (i) have a policy period no longer than one year;
 - (ii) have a period for which benefits may be payable following a sickness or accident of no longer than five years;
 - (iii) have no provision for guaranteed renewability or guaranteed extension of cover;
 - (iv) to the extent that the policy provides benefits on death, that this component of the policy is a minor component and the benefits relate only to specific causes of death; and
 - (v) to the extent that the policy provides cover for medical and/or hospital expenses, that this cover is incidental to other coverage under the policy and is not the main component of the policy.
- (6) “Property Insurance Business” means the business of effecting and carrying out contracts of insurance against risks of loss of, or damage to, real or personal property, not being risks of a kind such that the business of effecting and carrying out contracts of insurance against them constitutes marine, aviation and transport insurance business or motor vehicle insurance business and includes risks of loss to the persons insured attributable to interruption of the carrying on of business carried on by them or to reduction of the scope of business so carried on.

- (7) “Workers Compensation Insurance Business” means the business of effecting and carrying out contracts of insurance against the liability of an employer to pay compensation to workers, whether under statute or negligence, for accident or injury related to the employment.

Incidental Business

If a single policy covers risks that would fall into more than one class, the insurer may classify it into the class that represents the predominant risk. All other risks on the policy would be included in the dominant class and may be referred to as incidental business.

For example, a Home policy may include a legal liability cover, but the entire policy can be classified as Property.

This provision does not prohibit an insurer from allocating a policy to more than one class if it wishes to do so. An insurer should consider allocating a policy to more than one class if each of the components is significant in its own right, the insurer determines the premium separately for each component and the insurer is able to separate claims into the relevant classes.

Market Practice

In determining the appropriate class for any policy, the insurer may consider normal market practice in making such determinations, in addition to the definitions in this schedule. For example, major risks in the petroleum industry or insurance of certain construction projects may conventionally be regarded as Marine business, even though the definitions in this Schedule may classify the policy as Property.

If an insurer uses market practice in determining the appropriate class it must do so on a consistent basis.

TYPE B—LONG-TERM INSURANCE BUSINESS

- (1) “Accident and Sickness Insurance Business” means the business of effecting and carrying out contracts of insurance—
- (a) in the case of accident—
 - (i) insurance against loss resulting from bodily injury to, or the death of, a person caused by an accident; or
 - (ii) insurance whereby an insurer undertakes to pay a certain sum or sums of insurance monies in the event of bodily injury to, or the death of, a person caused by an accident; and
 - (b) in the case of sickness—
 - (i) insurance against loss resulting from the sickness or disability of a person other than loss resulting from an accident or death;

- (ii) insurance whereby an insurer undertakes to pay a certain sum or sums of insurance monies in the event of the sickness or disability of a person other than as a result of an accident; or
 - (iii) insurance whereby an insurer undertakes to pay a certain sum or sums of insurance monies to reimburse expenses incurred for the health care, including the preventive care of a person other than as a result of an accident, and is not Personal Accident Short-Term Insurance Business.
- (2) “disability income insurance” means insurance whereby an insurer undertakes to pay a certain sum of monies in the event of—
- (a) bodily injury to a person caused by an accident; or
 - (b) sickness or disability of a person other than as a result of an accident.
- (3) “Industrial Life Insurance Business” means the business of effecting and carrying out contracts of insurance upon human life, premiums in respect of which are contracted to be paid at intervals of less than forty business days and which are usually received by means of collectors.
- (4) “Life Insurance Business” means the business of effecting and carrying out contracts of insurance that are payable—
- (a) on the death of a person;
 - (b) on the happening of an event or contingency dependent on human life; or
 - (c) at a fixed or determinable future time,
- for a term dependent on human life, and without restricting the generality of the foregoing includes—
- (i) insurance whereby an insurer, as part of a contract of life insurance undertakes to pay an additional amount of insurance monies in the event of the death by accident of the person whose life is insured;

“introductory interest rate” is an interest rate favourable to the consumer that applies for a specified period of time at the beginning of the contract;

“key information” means any information which is likely to influence a policyholder’s actions with regard to a product or service;

“promotional documents” means any document used as a marketing or sales material. This may include printed, electronic or digital posters, cards, brochures, pamphlets, illustrations.

A. SALES AND MARKETING MATERIALS

General Principles

Insurers should ensure their sales and marketing materials and procedures do not mislead consumers. Insurers should be legally responsible for all statements made in marketing and sales materials they produce related to their products. All marketing and sales materials should be easily readable and understandable by the general public.

1. Sales and Marketing Materials

An insurer shall ensure that all information it provides to a policyholder is clear, accurate and up to date. Key information shall be brought to the attention of the consumer. The method of presentation shall not disguise, diminish or obscure important information—

- (a) An insurer must ensure that—
 - the design, presentation and content of promotional documents used as Sales and Marketing materials are clear, fair, accurate and not misleading;
- (b) An insurer must ensure that promotional documents are not misleading in particular in relation to—
 - (i) the insurer’s ability to provide the product or service being marketed or sold;
 - (ii) the scale of the insurer’s activities;
 - (iii) the extent of the resources of the insurer;
 - (iv) the nature of the insurer’s or any other person’s involvement in the product or service;

- (v) the scarcity of the product or service; and
- (vi) past performance or possible future performance of the product or service;
- (c) An insurer must ensure that its name is clearly shown in all promotional documents;
- (d) An insurer must ensure that—
 - small print or footnotes are only used to supplement or elaborate on the key information in the main body of the promotional document and must be of sufficient size and prominence to be clearly legible;
- (e) An insurer must ensure that a promotional document that uses promotional or introductory interest rates clearly states the expiry date of that interest rate and provides an indication of the rate that will apply thereafter;
- (f) An insurer must ensure that any assumptions or illustrations, on which a statement, promise or forecast contained in a promotional document is based, are clearly stated, reasonable and up to date;
- (g) An insurer must ensure that a document that promotes more than one product sets out clearly the key information relating to each product in such a way that a consumer can distinguish between the products;
- (h) Where an intermediary is tied to a single provider for a particular product or service, the intermediary must disclose this fact in all promotional documents for the advertised product or service;
- (i) An insurer must ensure that comparisons or contrasts are based either on facts verified by the insurer, or on reasonable assumptions stated within the promotional document. They should be presented in a clear, fair and balanced way and not omit anything material to the comparison or contrast. Material differences between the products must be set out clearly; and
- (j) An insurer must ensure that a promotional document only describes a product or service as free where the product or service in its entirety is available free of charge to the consumer.

2. Marketing Materials for Investment Products

- (a) An insurer must ensure that a promotional document for a product where the consumer may not get back 100% of the initial capital invested contain a warning statement, which states that if you invest in the product, the consumer may lose some or all of the money invested; and

- (b) An insurer must ensure that where the product or service can fluctuate in price or value, the promotional document contains a warning statement, which states that your return on investment is subject to market conditions and as such may fluctuate.

B. UNDERSTANDING CONSUMERS' NEEDS

General Principles

The insurance intermediary or officer should be required to obtain sufficient information about the consumer to ensure an appropriate product is offered. Formal "fact finds" should be specified for long-term savings and investment products and they should be retained and be available for inspection for a reasonable number of years.

1. Knowing the Consumer

An insurer shall gather and record sufficient information from the consumer prior to offering, recommending, arranging or providing a product or service appropriate to that consumer. The level of information gathered should be appropriate to the nature and complexity of the product or service being sought by the consumer, but shall be to a level that allows the insurer to provide a professional service and shall include details of the consumer's—

- (a) Needs and objectives including, where relevant—
- (i) the length of time for which the consumer wishes to hold a product;
 - (ii) need for access to funds (including emergency funds); and
 - (iii) need for accumulation of funds.

 - (iii) financial products and other assets; and
 - (iv) debts and financial commitments.
- (d) An insurer shall endeavour to have the consumer certify the accuracy of the information it has provided to the insurer.

2. Assessing suitability

When assessing the suitability of a product or service for a consumer, the insurer must, at a minimum, consider and document whether, on the basis of the information gathered under Provisions B1(a) to (c)—

- (a) the product or service meets that consumer's needs and objectives;
- (b) the consumer—
 - (i) is likely to be able to meet the financial commitment associated with the product on an ongoing basis;
 - (ii) is financially able to bear any risks attaching to the product or service; and
- (c) the product or service is consistent with the consumer's attitude to risk.

An insurer must ensure that any product or service offered to a potential consumer is suitable to that potential consumer, having regard to the facts disclosed by the potential consumer and other relevant facts about that potential consumer of which the insurer is aware.

The following additional requirements apply:

- (a) where an insurer offers a selection of product options to the consumer, the product options contained in the selection must represent the most suitable from the range available from the insurer; and
- (b) where an insurer recommends a product to a consumer, the recommended product must be the most suitable product for that consumer.

C. PRIVACY AND DATA PROTECTION

General Principles

Policyholders have a right to expect that their financial transactions are kept confidential. Insurers should protect the confidentiality and security of personal data against any anticipated threats, or hazards to the security or integrity of such information, and against unauthorised access.

1. Confidentiality and Security of Policyholders' Information

An insurer must ensure that, where it communicates with a policyholder, it has in place appropriate arrangements to ensure the security of information received from the policyholder and the secure transmission of information to the policyholder—

- (a) electronic policyholder information should be stored on a secure server that is protected by passwords or other security protection. Servers should be kept in a physically secure area;

- (b) sensitive policyholder data should not be stored on computers accessible by an Internet connection. If sensitive data is stored on such computers, appropriate software and firewall protection and intrusion detection devices should be utilised;
- (c) secure backup media should be maintained and archived data kept secure;
- (d) all systems should be password protected and automatically locked once there has been no activity for a specified period of time. Passwords should be changed regularly and times of log on and off should be recorded;
- (e) access to physical locations containing electronic policyholder information, such as buildings, computer facilities and records storage facilities should be restricted to authorised individuals only;
- (f) procedures should be designed to ensure that modifications to policyholder records and information are monitored and recorded and that checks are in place to detect and/or prevent and deal with unauthorised modification;
- (g) monitoring systems and procedures to detect actual and attempted attacks on, or intrusions into information systems should be in place;
- (h) employees should be properly trained in maintaining the security, confidentiality and integrity of policyholder records and information. Training should be consistent with the user's function; and
- (i) all new employees should be apprised of the security policies and procedures and should be trained in maintaining the security, confidentiality and integrity of policyholder records and information within two months of joining the insurer.

D. AGENT TRAINING

1. Insurers must develop, control and approve all illustrative and promotional documents used by agents in the solicitation of business.
2. Insurers must have a process in place to ensure that only authorised illustrative and promotional material are used by agents in the conduct of a sale.
3. Insurers must put a compliance programme in place to ensure that after the sale is made, no unauthorised promotional and illustrative material were used by agents to make the sale, and that a proper needs analysis was completed.

4. Insurers must have documented training programs for agents and ensure all agents are put through this process.

E. POST-SALE-COMMUNICATION

General Principles

Insurers should ensure their post-sale documents and communications are clear, fair, complete and do not mislead policyholders. Insurers shall ensure that information contained in post-sale documents and other forms of communication is accurate and up to date, and clearly written. All appropriate and relevant information must be included on the communication. The method of presentation of the information shall not disguise, diminish or obscure important information.

1. An insurer must make adequate disclosure to the policyholders of all relevant information on the performance of their insurance policies.

2. Any and all options presented post-sale to policyholders must include information that is adequate enough to enable policyholders to make informed decisions.

Application of standards.

4. (1) The appointed actuary shall—

Verification of data.

(a) ensure that he is familiar with the procedures for the administration and accounting of the business of the insurer; and

(b) establish suitable control procedures to verify—

(iii) the insurer’s compliance with applicable accounting practices, actuarial liabilities and that the amount reported for reinsurance recoverables is appropriate taking all the circumstances into account.

6. (1) The appointed actuary shall select assumptions which are appropriate to the circumstances of the insurer as assessed by the appointed actuary at the valuation date, considering the expected experience, policies in force, the method of valuing assets, statutory constraints on the valuation of policy benefit liabilities and the release of surplus over the policy duration.

Determination of assumptions.

(2) The responsibility of the appointed actuary to select assumptions appropriate for the portfolio being valued shall not be affected by the capital and surplus requirements.

(3) The appointed actuary shall make an appropriate assumption about each contingency which materially affects the net income for the policies in force over their lifetime.

(4) The appointed actuary shall not make the same assumption for two policies unless it is expected that their experience for that assumption will be similar.

(5) The appointed actuary shall give more careful study to those assumptions to which liabilities are more sensitive.

- (a) only part of the observed change shall be reflected in the current valuation assumption; and
- (b) the balance of the change shall be reflected in a future valuation to the extent that further data develops to confirm the observed change in experience or environment.

9. (1) Where a policy allows a policyholder to create, prolong or stop a policy benefit, the appointed actuary shall assume that policyholders who benefit from doing so will tend to act to the detriment of the insurer. Anti-selection.

(2) Where the reinsurance arrangements between two companies allow insurance business to be recaptured by a ceding company, the appointed actuary shall assume that the ceding company which benefits from doing so will tend to act to the detriment of the accepting insurer.

- (a) it is not possible to determine expected experience with complete confidence; and
- (b) actual experience may be better or worse than expected experience, and accordingly, the appointed actuary shall define a margin for adverse deviation for each assumption in order to add a provision to the policy benefit liabilities.

(2) The appointed actuary shall ensure that the provision made under subregulation (1) is appropriate for income statement purposes and appropriate to the circumstances of the insurer.

(3) For each assumption used, the margin referred to in subregulation (1) shall—

- (a) be for the mis-estimation of the mean and for the possible deterioration thereof; and
- (b) not cover statistical fluctuation or catastrophic or similar major unexpected events.

(4) For the purposes of determining the provision for adverse deviation, the appointed actuary shall take into account the following:

- (a) the margin for adverse deviations shall increase the policy benefit liabilities;
- (b) the margin shall be greater when there is—
 - (i) less confidence in the realisation of the expected experience; or
 - (ii) a stronger possibility of deterioration of the mean;
- (c) the internal practices of the insurer such as underwriting, matching, immunisation and the characteristics of the policies;
- (d) subject to paragraphs (a) to (c), the margin shall be consistent among generations of policies and consistent among such policies; and
- (e) the provision for adverse deviations for a participating policy may be less than the provision for a comparable non-participating policy by an amount which depends on—
 - (i) the size of the policyholder dividends; and
 - (ii) how readily the insurer will adapt its dividend scale to changing conditions.

(5) The appointed actuary shall select a margin for adverse deviations between a low margin and a high margin, specified for each best estimate assumption as stated in subregulation (9) and of five per cent and twenty per cent (or minus five per cent and minus twenty per cent) respectively, of each other best estimate assumption.

(6) In circumstances where a margin for adverse deviations cannot be defined as a percentage of the best estimate assumption, the appointed actuary shall calculate the related provision for adverse deviations as the increase in policy benefit liabilities which results from the substitution of a conservative assumption for the best estimate assumption.

(7) The appointed actuary shall take into account other significant considerations, indicative of a potential deterioration of the best estimate assumption, when selecting a margin for adverse deviations, including —

- (a) a significant concentration of risks or lack of diversification;
- (b) operational risks which adversely impact the likelihood of continuing to obtain best estimate assumption; or
- (c) past experience which may not be representative of future experience and where the experience may deteriorate.

(8) Where the margin for adverse deviations is expressed as a percentage and the best estimate assumption is unusually low, the appointed actuary may make a selection above the high margin for unusually high uncertainty or where the resulting provision for adverse deviations is very low.

(9) The low and high margins referred to in subregulation (5), which apply for the specified best estimate assumptions are as follows:

- (a) the low and high margins for adverse deviations for the insurance mortality rate per one thousand are respectively an addition of three point seventy-five and fifteen, each divided by the best estimate curtate expectation of life at the projected attained age of the life insured;

- (b) the low and high margins for adverse deviations for the annuity mortality rate are respectively a subtraction of five per cent and fifteen per cent of the best estimate mortality rate;
- (c) the low and high margins for adverse deviations for morbidity are respectively an addition of five per cent and twenty per cent of the best estimate of morbidity incidence rates, and a subtraction of five per cent and twenty per cent of the best estimate of morbidity termination rates reflecting any expected correlation between incidence and termination rates;
- (d) the low and high margins for adverse deviations for withdrawal and partial withdrawal are respectively an addition or subtraction, as appropriate, of five per cent and twenty per cent of the best estimate withdrawal rates and in order to ensure that the margin for adverse deviation increases liabilities, the choice between addition and subtraction may need to vary by interest scenario, age, policy duration, and other parameters; and
- (e) the expense assumption shall provide for future inflation consistent with that in the interest rate scenario, and the low and high margins for adverse deviations are respectively two point five per cent and ten per cent of best estimate expense, including inflation.

Investment
return.

11. (1) The appointed actuary shall base the investment rate of return on the—

- (a) method of reporting investment return and valuing assets; and

- (b) assets supporting the policy benefit liabilities at the valuation date.
- (2) The investment rate of return of a group of policies shall be determined by—
- (a) the projected rate of return on assets supporting the liabilities of those policies at the valuation date;
 - (b) the expected new money rate of return on the assets of the insurer projected to be acquired after the valuation date, where cash flow is expected to be positive;
 - (c) the expected capital gains or losses on the assets of the insurer projected to be disposed of after the valuation date, where cash flow is expected to be negative;
 - (d) the expected investment tax rates of the assets supporting the liabilities of those policies;
 - (e) the expected investment expense rates of the assets supporting the liabilities of those policies;
 - (f) the expected losses from default of the assets supporting the liabilities of those policies; and
 - (g) provisions for adverse deviations.
- (3) The appointed actuary shall ensure that the expected return from income producing real estate, including capital growth and maturity proceeds, for a consistent term includes an appropriate margin for adverse deviation.
- (4) The appointed actuary shall ensure that the expected return on equities from the combination of dividend, capital growth and sales for a consistent term includes an appropriate margin for adverse deviation.
- (5) For new money investment rates, the appointed actuary shall make a provision for adverse deviations which reflects the fact that no person is able with any confidence to predict new money investment rates beyond a short time following the valuation date.

(6) In developing the valuation interest rate assumption, the appointed actuary shall ensure that the initial new money investment rate reflects a current yield curve with a straight line projection between the initial and ultimate new money investment rates taking into consideration the currency of the cash flows to be discounted.

(7) The appointed actuary shall ensure that the ultimate new money investment rate established represents an ultimate long term risk free reinvestment rate.

(8) The appointed actuary shall ensure that provision for adverse deviations reflects the ability and willingness of the insurer to compensate for an adverse deviation by a reduction in policyholder dividends.

(9) The appointed actuary shall assume that borrowers and policyholders who would benefit from exercising their contractual options to the detriment of the insurer will do so.

(10) Where the projection of cash flow requires new investments, the appointed actuary shall not, without an explicit reason, assume a change in its recent composition or rate of growth or reinvestment strategy or practice which reduces the liabilities.

Expenses.

12. (1) The appointed actuary shall make assumptions for the following:

- (a) investment expense, which is the expense allocable to the investment and safekeeping of assets;
- (b) issue expense, which is the expense incurred for the production of new insurance business, being the sum of—
 - (i) the expense payable at and after issue as a direct result of the issue of policies; and
 - (ii) the expense payable before issue, which directly results in the issue of policies; and

(c) administrative expense, which is the expense allocable to the maintenance and servicing of policies, including claims handling expenses, premium taxes and charges for licences and government supervision, but excluding investment expense and issue expense.

(2) Only investment and administrative expenses which shall be incurred after the valuation date shall be recognised in the actuarial report.

(3) Renewal commissions shall include volume-based commissions such as financing costs, overrides and bonuses incurred after the valuation date.

(4) Issue expenses shall not be overstated to the extent that future administrative expenses shall thereby be understated.

(5) In making the investment and administrative expense assumptions, the appointed actuary shall assume—

(a) that an insurer which is open to new business continues as such; and

(b) that an insurer which is closed to new business continues as such in a run-off position until such time as it is desirable and practical to reinsure the policies in force, or to amalgamate the insurer into another insurer.

13. (1) The appointed actuary shall make assumptions on mortality and morbidity where appropriate.

Mortality and morbidity assumptions.

(2) For life and health insurance, the appointed actuary shall support mortality or morbidity rates lower than the base table before margins for adverse deviations with statistically valid company or inter-company experience studies.

(3) For annuity products, the appointed actuary shall support mortality rates higher than the base table before margins for adverse deviations with statistically valid company or inter-company experience.

(4) The appointed actuary shall take into account any expected effects of anti-selection on mortality or morbidity before the application of a margin for adverse deviation.

(5) The appointed actuary shall not use mortality rates which reflect an assumption of improvement trends for life insurance products, but he may use annuitant mortality rates which reflect long-term mortality improvements, where appropriate.

Lapse and partial withdrawals.

14. (1) The appointed actuary shall make assumptions on lapse rates or partial withdrawals or both, where the insurer is exposed to risk from the fact that the policyholder has the option to withdraw or persist, or to select the timing or amount of withdrawal.

- (2) The appointed actuary shall base the assumptions on—
- (a) recent experience studies of the in force business;
 - (b) product features which are likely to affect the lapse; and
 - (c) external factors such as conditions of the insurance industry and the economy.

(3) For newer products where reliable experience data may not be available, the appointed actuary shall adopt a more conservative approach in selecting the expected assumptions.

Inflation and
return rate.

15. For policies where the liabilities appear to be more sensitive to the inflation rate assumption than to the investment return rate assumption, the appointed actuary shall not assume that the new money investment rate is correlated with the inflation rate but he shall assume that inflation continues indefinitely.

Guarantees.

16. The appointed actuary shall make adequate provision for policy and other contract guarantees, including guarantees, made under any off balance sheet arrangements, including segregated fund policies.

17. (1) Policy liabilities and other actuarial liabilities reported in the insurer's return shall not be net of the value of recoveries that are expected from reinsurance ceded.

Reinsurance recoverables.

(2) An insurer shall record the value of the reinsurance recoverables in the returns.

(3) The appointed actuary shall ensure that there is a fair presentation of the policy liabilities and other actuarial liabilities reported in the insurer's return and that the amount of the reinsurance recoverables is appropriate.

(4) The recovery on account of reinsurance ceded shall take account of—

- (a) the reinsurer's share of claims;
- (b) reinsurance commissions;
- (c) allowances;
- (d) retrospective premium adjustments; and
- (e) the financial condition of the reinsurer.

18. The actuarial report and the actuarial certificate required under section 145(2) of the Act shall be in such format as specified by the Inspector from time to time.

Application.

3. (1) Except where specifically provided otherwise, these Regulations apply to all insurers.

(2) The appointed actuary of an insurer shall apply the standards of accepted actuarial practice with respect to actuarial work required under the Act and these Regulations.

(3) For a period of three years immediately after the commencement of the Act, where an actuary has not yet been appointed by an insurer carrying on general insurance business, the requirements of these Regulations for the investigation and submission of a report of the financial condition shall apply to the Chief Financial Officer of that insurer for that period.

Annual investigation.

4. (1) The annual investigation of the financial condition of an insurer with respect to capital adequacy and liquidity by the appointed actuary shall—

- (a) include a review of the operations and the financial position of the insurer for at least the three years immediately preceding the effective date including the regulatory capital required, regulatory capital ratio and net tier 1 ratio at the end of each of those years;

 - (iv) actions by the insurer which shall mitigate those threats; and
 - (v) any unviable financial condition scenario.

(2) The projections referred to in this regulation 4 may be performed through the use of stress or scenario testing.

(3) The appointed actuary may prepare projections as part of an insurer's business planning process prior to the effective date using a forecast of the position at the effective date.

(4) An insurer shall establish criteria for capital adequacy and liquidity appropriate to its insurance business in accordance with the Act and Regulations made thereunder and the investigation made under regulation 4 and the financial condition report shall be based on these criteria.

(5) In the case of an insurer carrying on long-term insurance business, the appointed actuary shall determine valuation assumptions in accordance with the Insurance (Caribbean Policy Premium Method) Regulations, 2020 and shall be consistent with the most recent valuation and the adverse scenarios being tested for the insurer.

Projection Period.

5. (1) An insurer shall prepare a business plan in respect of the projection period.

(2) The term of the projection period shall be sufficient to enable the impact of adverse trends in assumptions in the various scenarios to be observed.

(3) In the case of an insurer carrying on long-term insurance business, the appointed actuary shall ensure that the valuation assumptions at the end of the projection period reflect the emerging experience within the scenario, and changes in valuation bases may be reflected at the end of the projection period or throughout the projection period as would best reflect the circumstances of the insurer in such scenario.

(4) In the case of an insurer carrying on general insurance business, the appointed actuary shall ensure that the claim liabilities at the end of the projection period reflect the emerging experience within the scenario.

Materiality.

6. (1) The appointed actuary shall take materiality into account when preparing the financial condition report.

(2) In determining the standard of materiality to be applied, the factors at the effective date that the appointed actuary shall consider shall include, but are not limited to—

- (a) the size of the insurer;
- (b) the risk profile of the insurance business of the insurer;
- (c) the financial position of the insurer; and
- (d) the regulatory capital ratio and net tier 1 ratio of the insurer.

7. (1) The base scenario at the effective date in the financial condition report shall be consistent with the business plan and the appointed actuary shall include the marketing plans, sales objectives, investment policies, pricing philosophy and underwriting philosophy in determining the base scenario for the insurer.

Base Scenario.

(2) The appointed actuary shall disclose in the financial condition report any differences between the base scenario and the business plan of the insurer.

8. (1) The appointed actuary shall analyse the ability of the insurer to withstand adverse scenarios which would cause the insurer's capital ratios to fall below the minimum regulatory capital ratio and the net tier 1 ratio specified in the Insurance (Capital Adequacy) Regulations, 2020 and, in conducting such analysis, the appointed actuary shall—

Initial Testing.

- (a) apply the adverse scenarios to the base scenario;
- (b) consider, in selecting and testing the adverse scenarios, how far the associated assumption has to be changed in order to stress the financial condition adequately so as to identify unviable financial condition scenarios; and
- (c) consider whether the number of adverse scenarios is sufficient to provide a thorough assessment of the risks to which an insurer is exposed.

(2) The appointed actuary shall, in addition to adverse scenarios referred to in regulation 4(1)(d), test adverse scenarios that may be specified by the Inspector to the insurer from time to time and the Inspector may also specify to the insurer additional criteria for tests of capital adequacy and liquidity.

(3) The appointed actuary shall consider sensitivity tests to determine the risks to which an insurer is most sensitive when investigating adverse scenarios and these sensitivity tests shall include the scenarios specified by the Inspector.

(4) The appointed actuary shall test adverse scenarios in a manner that is applicable to the circumstances of the insurer.

(5) The appointed actuary shall adjust specific rates of deterioration to produce a more meaningful test in instances where the adverse scenarios would not adequately stress the financial condition of the insurer.

(6) Where the appointed actuary is of the opinion that certain adverse scenarios will create an unviable financial condition scenario for the insurer and cause management to consider mitigating actions, he shall identify those adverse scenarios in the financial condition report.

Further Testing.

9. (1) Following the initial testing of adverse scenarios under regulation 8, the appointed actuary shall test other plausible adverse scenarios and shall investigate additional single-risk adverse scenarios, or integrated adverse scenarios resulting from a combination of single-risk adverse scenarios.

(2) When investigating the adverse scenarios under subregulation (1), the appointed actuary shall test risks that are either more likely to occur or to which the insurer is more sensitive.

(3) The appointed actuary shall identify plausible threats to the financial condition, actions that would lessen the likelihood of those threats, and actions that would mitigate threats, if they materialised, in testing other adverse scenarios under this regulation 9.

Modelling techniques and documentation.

10. (1) The appointed actuary shall—

- (a) choose or develop a model for testing adverse scenarios that is applicable to the circumstances of the insurer; and
- (b) validate the model annually, or at such other time as the circumstances may require, to ensure reliability.

(2) The appointed actuary may use the deterministic method, the stochastic method or a combination of deterministic and stochastic methods to model adverse scenarios.

(3) The appointed actuary shall keep adequate documentation of the work performed, including documentation of—

- (a) the methods and assumptions used, as well as the numerical results of all the adverse scenarios tested;
- (b) the justification for not testing certain risks; and
- (c) the insurance business of the insurer judged to be immaterial and omitted from testing, for a period of no less than seven years from the date such documentation was created.

(4) The appointed actuary shall create a procedure manual that properly documents the entire stress testing process which shall include the following minimum requirements:

- (a) the basic principles of the stress testing approach;
- (b) the quantitative and qualitative techniques employed;
- (c) the design of the stress testing models;
- (d) the controls and procedures integral to the stress testing process; and
- (e) the criteria used to determine the scenarios to be tested.

11. (1) For the purposes of sections 159 and 214 of the Act, the appointed actuary shall provide annually to the board of directors of the insurer, a written financial condition report, as at the effective date, outlining the investigations performed under regulation 4 and presenting significant findings and conclusions.

Financial Condition
Report.

(2) The Financial Condition Report shall be in such format and shall include the signed opinion of the appointed actuary as specified by the Inspector from time to time.

(3) In addition to the annual requirement under subregulation (1), the appointed actuary shall continually identify and monitor matters that may threaten the insurer's financial condition.

(4) If there is a material adverse change in the insurer's circumstances, the appointed actuary shall immediately make an investigation and submit a report on the findings of such investigation to the Inspector, the Chief Executive Officer and the board of directors of the insurer.
