(b) twice summarily of larceny or damage to property, is liable to imprisonment for seven years.

37. (1) An allegation in an indictment that money or bank notes have been embezzled or obtained by false pretences can, so far as regards the description of the property, be sustained by proof that the offender embezzled or obtained any piece of coin or any bank note or any portion of the value thereof, although such piece of coin or bank note may have been delivered to him in order that some part of the value thereof should be returned to any person and the part has been returned accordingly. Proof.

(2) In an indictment for receiving any property under this Act, any number of persons who have at different times so received such property or any part thereof may be charged and tried together. Trial of persons together.

(3) Any person who is a member of any co-partnership, or is one of two or more beneficial owners of any property, steals or embezzles any such property of or belonging to the co-partnership or to such beneficial owners, is liable to be dealt with, tried and punished as if he had not been or was not a member of the co-partnership or one of the beneficial owners. Co-partnership property.

38. (1) Any person found committing any offence punishable under this Act, except an offence under section 33, may be Arrest without warrant.
[45 of 1979].

immediately apprehended without a warrant by any person and forthwith taken, together with the property, if any, before a Magistrate or Justice to be dealt with according to law.

Arrest on suspicion.

(2) Any person to whom any property is offered to be sold, pawned or delivered, if he has reasonable cause to suspect that any offence has been committed against this Act with respect to such property, shall, if in his power, apprehend and forthwith take before a Magistrate or Justice the person offering the same, together with the property, to be dealt with according to law.

Search warrants.

39. (1) If it is made to appear by information on oath before a Magistrate or Justice that there is reasonable cause to believe that any person has in his custody or possession or on his premises any property whatsoever, with respect to which any offence against this Act has been committed, the Magistrate or Justice may grant a warrant to search for and seize the same.

(2) Any constable may, if authorised in writing by a chief officer of Police, enter any house, shop, warehouse, yard or other premises, and search for and seize any property he believes to have been stolen and, where any property is seized in pursuance of this section, the person on whose premises it was at the time of seizure or the person from whom it was taken shall, unless previously charged with receiving the same knowing it to have been stolen, be summoned before a Magistrate to account for his possession of such property, and the Magistrate shall make such order respecting the disposal of the property and may award such costs as the justice of the case may require.

(3) Any chief officer of Police may give such authority as mentioned above—

- (a) when the premises to be searched are or within the preceding twelve months have been in the occupation of any person who has been convicted of receiving stolen property or of harbouring thieves; or
- (b) when the premises to be searched are in the occupation of any person who has been convicted of any offence involving fraud or dishonesty and punishable with imprisonment.

(4) It shall not be necessary for the chief officer of Police on giving such authority to specify any particular property, but he may give such authority if he has reason to believe generally that the premises are being made a receptacle for stolen goods.

(5) In this section "chief officer of Police" means the Commissioner of Police or other officer having the chief command in any Police District.

40. (1) Whenever any person is being proceeded against for receiving any property knowing it to have been stolen, or for having in his possession stolen property, for the purpose of proving guilty knowledge there may be given in evidence at any stage of the proceedings—

- (a) the fact that other property stolen within the period of twelve months preceding the date of the offence charged was found or had been in his possession;
- (b) the fact that within the five years preceding the date of the offence charged he was convicted of any offence involving fraud or dishonesty.

This last-mentioned fact may not be proved unless—

- (i) seven days' notice in writing has been given to the offender that proof of the previous conviction is intended to be given;
- (ii) evidence has been given that the property in respect of which the offender is being tried was found or had been in his possession.

(2) No person is liable to be convicted of any offence against sections 8, 9(a), 21, 22, and 23 upon any evidence whatever in respect of any act done by him, if at any time previously to his being charged with such offence he has first disclosed such act on oath, in consequence of any compulsory process of any court of law or equity in any action, suit or proceeding which has been bona fide instituted by any person aggrieved.

(3) In any proceedings in respect of any offence against sections 8, 9(a), 21, 22, and 23, a statement or admission made by any person in any compulsory examination or deposition before any court on the hearing of any matter in bankruptcy shall not be admissible in evidence against that person.

41. (1) If, on the trial of any indictment for any offence against section 18 (relating to embezzlement), it is proved that the defendant stole the property in question, the jury may find him guilty of stealing, and thereupon he is liable to be punished accordingly; and on the trial of any indictment for stealing, the jury may in like manner find the defendant guilty of embezzlement or of fraudulent application or disposition, as the case may be, and thereupon he is liable to be punished accordingly.

Evidence.

Compulsory disclosure in civil action.

Compulsory disclosure in bankruptcy.

Possible verdicts on charges of embezzlement, larceny or false pretences. [45 of 1979].

(2) If, on the trial of any indictment for stealing, it is proved that the defendant took any chattel, money or valuable security in question in any such manner as would amount in law to obtaining it by false pretences with intent to defraud, the jury may acquit the defendant of stealing and find him guilty of obtaining the chattel, money or valuable security by false pretences, and thereupon he is liable to be punished accordingly.

(3) If, on the trial of any indictment for obtaining any chattel, money, or valuable security by false pretences, it is proved that the defendant stole the property in question, he shall not by reason thereof be entitled to be acquitted of obtaining such property by false pretences.

(4) If, on the trial of any two or more persons indicted for jointly receiving any property, it is proved that one or more of such persons separately received any part of the property, the jury may convict upon the indictment such of the said persons as are proved to have received any part of the property.

Restitution.

42. (1) If any person guilty of any such offence as is mentioned in this Act, in stealing, taking, obtaining, extorting, embezzling, converting or disposing of, or in knowingly receiving, any property, is prosecuted to conviction by or on behalf of the owner of the property, the property shall be restored to the owner or his representative.

Writ of restitution.

(2) In every case in this section referred to, the Court before whom the offender is convicted shall have power to award from time to time writs of restitution for the said property or to order the restitution thereof in a summary manner except that where goods as defined in the Sale of Goods Act have been obtained by fraud or other wrongful means not amounting to stealing, the property in the goods shall not re-vest in the person who was the owner of the goods or his personal representative, by reason only of the conviction of the offender.

Ch. 82:30.

(3) Nothing in this section shall apply to the case of—

- (a) any valuable security which has been in good faith paid or discharged by some person or body corporate liable to the payment thereof or, being a negotiable instrument, has been in good faith taken or received by transfer or delivery by some person or body corporate for a just and valuable consideration without any notice or without any reasonable cause to suspect that the same had been stolen;
- (b) any offence against sections 21, 22, and 23.

(4) On the restitution of any stolen property, if it appears to the Court by the evidence that the offender has sold the stolen property to any person, and that such person has had no knowledge that the same was stolen, and that any moneys have been taken from the offender on his apprehension, the Court may, on the application of the purchaser, order that out of such moneys a sum not exceeding the amount of the proceeds of the sale be delivered to the purchaser.

Payment to purchaser from moneys found on offender.

43. Where an offence against this Act is by any other Act made punishable on summary conviction, proceedings may be taken either under such other Act or under this Act.

Offences punishable on summary conviction.

44. Any person who corruptly takes any money or reward, directly or indirectly, under pretence or upon account of helping any person to recover any property which has, under circumstances which amount to an indictable offence, been stolen or obtained in any way whatsoever or received, is (unless he has used all due diligence to cause the offender to be brought to trial for the same) liable to imprisonment for seven years.
