(3) A person who commits an offence is liable—

(a) on summary conviction, to a fine of one hundred thousand dollars and to imprisonment for seven years;

(b) on conviction on indictment, to a fine of three hundred thousand dollars and to imprisonment for a period not exceeding thirty years.

(4) In any proceedings against a person charged under this section, that person may as defence to the charge, prove that he neither consented to, nor connived at—

(a) the organisation, control, management, training, drilling or equipping of other persons; or

(b) the solicitation or provision of financial or other support for the management, control, training, drilling or equipping of other persons; or

(c) the meeting or assembly at any place for the purposes referred to in subsection (1)(c), in the use of firearms, artillery or explosives or in the taking part in any military exercise, for the purpose of subversive activities.

Admissibility of evidence.

6. In any proceedings under section 5 proof of things done or of words written, spoken or published, whether or not in the presence of any party to the proceedings, by any person assisting or taking part in the control or management of an association, or in the organising, training, drilling or equipping of members or supporters of the association, is admissible as evidence of intent to engage in subversive activities.

Search and seizure.

7. (1) Where a magistrate is satisfied by information on oath that—

- (a) there are reasonable grounds for suspecting that an offence under this Act has been committed or is being committed; and
- (b) evidence of the commission of the offence is likely to be found at the place or premises specified in the information, the magistrate may, upon application made by an officer of a rank not lower than that of Inspector, grant a search warrant to that officer in accordance with subsection (2).

(2) Subject to subsection (4), a search warrant granted by a magistrate under this section shall authorise the officer named in the warrant—

- (a) to enter the place or premises specified in the warrant within six months of the date of issue of the warrant;
- (b) to search such place or premises and every person found therein; and
- (c) to seize any article, apparatus, device or other thing found on such place or premises, or on any such person found therein, where the officer has reasonable grounds to suspect that the article, apparatus, device or thing may be used as evidence of the commission of an offence under this Act.

(3) Every search, of a female person under this section shall be conducted by a female officer.

(4) Where any article, apparatus, device or other thing is seized from any place or premises or from any person found therein pursuant to this section—

- (a) a list of those articles, apparatus, devices or things shall be compiled by an officer present at time of the search; and
- (b) a copy of that list shall, within twenty-four hours of the search, be given to the person who appears to be the occupier of the place or premises.

(5) A person who obstructs an officer in the execution of his duty under this section or who incites another person to do so, commits an offence and is liable on summary conviction to a fine of five thousand dollars and to imprisonment for five years.

8. Notwithstanding any written law to the contrary, where a person is convicted of an offence under this Act and any article, apparatus, device or other thing in relation to the offence is seized pursuant to section 7(2), such article, apparatus, device or thing—

- (a) is, upon conviction, in addition to any punishment imposed for the offence, forfeited to the State; and
- (b) may be destroyed or otherwise disposed of as the Minister directs where no appeal is pending from the conviction.

9. This Act does not apply to the training or drilling of persons or to the practice of military exercises in accordance with the Defence Act or any other written law.

Forfeiture.

Non-application.
Ch. 14:01.
